

Tiffany Kirgan is a partner in Johnson Financial Group. She has the privilege of working with multigenerational family businesses, closely held corporations, and successful professionals in the areas of business succession planning, wealth transfer to the second and third generations, as well as a unique approach to philanthropic vision development, Outlast Your Outcome.

She is a certified Heritage Design Professional™. Her firm works with successful professionals and multi-generational families to help you discover the Why behind your wealth. Tiffany facilitates The Bigger Conversations – conversations that allow family members to stretch their hearts and minds into new and empowering realms of their own thinking. By having these conversations with each generation, and the family as a whole, Johnson Financial Group helps families perpetuate their impact and continuity for generations to come.
